MARYVILLE ON HIGHWAY NO. 71

TRANSCONTINENTAL ROAD WILL PASS THROUGH THIS CITY.

IMPORTANT HIGHWAY

B. H. Piepmeier, Chief Engineer, States It Is One of the Most Important North and South Roads.

The transcontinental highway No. 71 from International Falls on the Canadian line to New Orleans will pass through Maryville, according to a message received today by the The Democrat-Forum and Tribune from B. H. Piepmeier, chief engineer of the Missouri state highway commission. The message was in reply to one sent by this paper to Mr. Piepmeier.

In his message Mr. Piepmeier states "we recognize it (this road through Maryville) as one of the most important North and South roads across the United States. tI will be marked next year."

Mr. Piepmeier is a member of the joint board of the American Association of State Highway Officials. This board in conjunction with the United States bureau of public roads has definitely selected the routes and numbers for the interstate or transcontinental highways, a meeting of the sub-committee of which Mr. Piepmeier is a member having been held in St. Louis Sept. 25.

It is planned to number all of the east and west routes in even numbers, the principal routes being numbered 10, 20, 30, 40, etc. The north and south routes will be numbered 1, 11, 21, 31, 41, etc. Alternate routes over and branches of the main highway will be identified with similar numbers. For example, a branch or cross-over of highway No. 40 will be number 140 and a branch of 30 will be number 130.

A standard system of warning signals and markers was adopted.

The distance of the proposed federal routes, which will be marked and carried out by the state with the aid of federal appropriation, is approximately 75,000 miles.

Missouri will have seven routes No. 40 from Baltimore to San Francisco, will pass through St. Louis and will be routed over what is now state highway No. 2. No. 50, from Washington to Wadsworth, Nev., will be routed over the southern route, which is now state highway No. 12 through Jefferson City and Sedalia. No. 61 will take the tourist over what is now state highway No. 9 through Hannibal, St. Louis, Cape Girardeau and to the Arkansas line and then through Blytheville, Ark., and on to Memphis.

No. 69 goes from Kansas City to Des Moines; No. 65 from St. Paul through Des Moines, Trenton, Chillicothe, Sedalia, Springfield, Little Rock and New Orleans; No. 63 from Des Moines through Jefferson City and to Memphis, and No. 3, from St. Joseph through Hannibal and to Indianapolis.

C. D. Hooker Leaves Fund to Church Here

(Presbyterian Church Builder)

Mr. C. D. Hooker, just before he passed away, directed that $1,000 be given to the church to aid in the acquisition of our new manse. This has been announced, but should have been mentioned in these columns last week. One great thing about money is that we can expend it for enterprises that will outlast our lifetimes. A manse is an indispensable adjunct of a church. Mr. Hooker has given impetus to this work.

We are deeply grateful to him, and know that his family will have a still keener interest than the rest of us in the manse project.

WILL TRY FOR STATE MEET

EFFORT MADE TO BRING I. O. O. F. CONVENTION HERE.

WILL VOTE WEDNESDAY

Frank E. Orcutt To Represent Nodaway County Association At Grand Encampment Held At Hannibal.

An effort to obtain the grand encampment of the I. O. O. F. lodges of Missouri for Maryville next year will be made by Frank E. Orcutt, who leaves Monday night for Hannibal, where the state meeting will be held this year.

Mr. Orcutt goes as a delegate from the Nodaway County I. O. O. F. Association.

The meeting in Hannibal will be held Tuesday and Wednesday next week. From seventy-five to one hundred delegates usually attend the annual meeting, which opens the second Tuesday in October.

Maryville has never had the state meeting. An effort was made two years ago to secure it, but on account of the state home being at Liberty, the convention was taken there.

Delegates to the grand encampment come from Odd Fellow lodges from all over the state. Prominent speakers are present, musical programs are provided, and there is a general session open to the public.

The convention will vote sometime next Wednesday where to hold the next year's meeting.

Mr. Orcutt will take with him to Hannibal letters of invitation from Mayor W. O. Garrett, the Maryville Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

Business Map Shows Conditions Here Good

Improvement is Shown Over August 1 and Much More Over Year Ago, Nation's Business Says

Business conditions in Northwest Missouri, as of September 1, are described as "good" by a map published in the Nation's Business for October.

The map shows a decided improvement in conditions in this section of Missouri over August 1 and a greater improvement over a year ago.

The map is a result of a nation-wide survey conducted by Frank Greene, managing editor of "Bradstreet's."

SHANKS CASE WAS SETTLED

INJUNCTION WAS DISSOLVED AND CITY WILL BUY LAND.

SOME RESTRICTIONS

As To 250 Feet Adjoining Shanks Porperty—Land Adjoins Oak Hill Cemetery.

The injunction suit of James A. Shanks against the City of Maryville to restrain them from buying the Kuster land of seven and one-half acres adjoining Oak Hill cemetery was dissolved and the city was permitted to purchase the land for cemetery purposes. By agreement the city is enjoined from using any part of the Kuster land within 200 feet of the Shanks land as a place of interment, but can beautify it or build roads, plant trees, etc.

The decree further provides that if the Shanks property shall cease to be used as a home the restriction shall terminate, and as to a part of the restricted land, if the city shall lower the grade of it so that surface water therefrom will not flow toward the Shanks property, the restriction shall thereby be automatically abated as to the lands changed.

The city council in special session last evening adopted an ordinance for the purchase of the Kuster land at a price of $5,625. The ordinance contains the restrictions as to the use of the 250 feet adjoining the Shanks property for a period of fifteen years unless the Shanks property is sold and in no event longer than fifteen years; and provided further if the city by reducing and the changing of the grade of the restricted land shall divert the course of surface waters so that same will not flow in a westerly direction toward the Shanks land, then and there the restrictions shall be abated as to that part of the restricted real estate.

The ordinance also provides that no part of the Kuster land shall be used for burial purposes except for persons of the Caucasian race. The ordinance will take effect in ten days.

Caillaux Says France Made More Concessions

Finance Minister Indirectly Puts Responsibility for Failure of Recent Debt Negotiations on U. S.

Havre, France, Oct. 10.—France made more concessions than the United States at the recent Franco-American debt negotiations in Washington, Joseph Caillaux, finance minister and head of the French debt mission to the United States, declared today on his arrival here from the United States on the S. S. France.

"The American delegation received us courteously and amiably, but the maximum concessions were not by America but by France," Caillaux said.

The Tank Is Gone But a Team Had to Haul It Away

The automobile has scored again, and once more the horse suffers. The marble watering tank which has stood for several years as the gift of the Twentieth Century Club at the corner of Market and Fourth streets, was moved away today.

Speed has won again. From now on the driver of a horse must look elsewhere for a place to water. The tank has been moved. Today it was hauled away. While automobiles tooted and trucks jarred on the pavement, it proceeded up the street—drawn by a team of horses.

Italy Made Guarantor in Security Treaty

Upon Other Issues, Delegates To Switzerland Conference Still Find Themselves Widely Apart.

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 10.—Italy was definitely brought into the proposed securities pact today.

The morning plenary session of the securities pact conference reached a definite decision to include Italy in the preamble of the pact, making that nation one of the guarantors of the western security pact.

Upon other issues the delegates still found themselves so widely apart that it was agreed to abandon the proposed plenary session this afternoon in order that the representatives of the various nations might engage in informal discussion.

"There are two sides to the Chinese question today," Miss Mamie Glassburner, missionary on furlough from that country, told the meeting last night. "There is the side of the yellow peril, and there is the side of those who hope to see the realization of their dreams for the spread of Christianity into that country where it is so much needed.

"In connection with the so-called "yellow peril" there are facts which challange us. The first of these is what may be termed the anti-Christian movement. This idea received its genesis in 1922 and was born again in 1924 when there was opposition to the plan of the National Education Association to get the mission schools in China recognized.

"Propaganda of various sorts has added fuel to the anti-Christian fire. China is pust across the border from Russia and there are so many communists in the student class.

"The next great factor in this movement is the spirit of nationalism. This started in Shanghai, but, characteristically, the friendship between the Chinese and foreign missionaries has been deepened by this nationalist movement."

Miss Glassburner told of the rapid adoption of Christianity by the Chinese. She cited instances of two conventions which she attended. The first, in 1907, was attended exclusively by foreign missionaries. The last, three years ago, was marked by the fact that more than half of those present were natives.

"After this latter conference, I found that the Chinese have come into charge of their own church," she said.

In speaking of home missions in China, Miss Glassburner told how one province in China is served entirely by native missionaries. "The Christian movement is permeating into every class of society. Evangelistic efforts are being made for all, and all are being reached."

Next she answered charges that church funds are being "flung" this way and that in China, and cited cases where the most rigid economy is being

Will Renew Fight For Railroad Merger

Senator Cummins Of Iowa Announces He Will Re-introduce Bill Providing For Compulsory Consolidation.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Presaging a new legislative fight to force a unification of American railroads, Senator Albert Cummins, Republican of Iowa, co-author of the Esch-Cummins act, today announced he would re-introduce his bill for compulsory rail consolidation at the next session of Congress.

Cummins declared the merger of all carriers into a few gigantic system was "absolutely necessary to prevent the partial collapse of the American railroad structure."

His bill, it is understood, will have the full support of the administration forces.

WASHINGTON WINS AGAIN

OVERCOME EARLY LEAD TO WIN GAME 4 TO 3.

MARBERRY IN RELIEF

Famous Relief Hurler Goes to Mound for Washington in Eighth—Rice Makes Sparkling Running Catch

Washington, Oct. 10.—Clear, cold weather was on tap for the third game of the World's Series today.

The score:

		R.	H.	E.
Pittsburgh	— 010 101 000—	3	8	2
Washington	— 001 001 20x—	4	1	1

Washington won the third game of the World Series, but only after a nerve wrecking game. In the last inning the bases were loaded and three balls on Traynor. Marberry, star relief hurler of Washington then proceeded to pull himself out of the hole by causing Traynor to fly out.

Washington turned out full strength to see the Pittsburgh Pirates and Washington resume their battle for the World's championship in organized baseball. The Griffith ball plaat was so packed that standing room was not available and many fans were turned away.

Ferguson and Kremer were the choice of the two managers to start in the crucial game of the series. Ferguson was removed in the seventh inning in order to insert a pinch hitter.

The Pirates stepped into the lead in the second inning when Traynor knocked the ball for a three bagger. Washington managed to tie the score in the third inning but Pittsburgh counted in the fourth and sixth, making the score three to one in favor of the Pirates. A home run by "Goose" Goslin, heavy hitting fielder of the Washington team was made in the sixth inning. No men were on bases at the time.

The Washington Senators made a strong bid for the game in the seventh when they inserted Liebold to bat for pitcher Ferguson. Kremer walked the batter with four pitched balls. "Bucky" Harris got an infield hit, his first hit of the series, and advanced McNeely, who was running for Liebold, to second base. Goslin bunted safely, filling the bases and with but one out. The expectant crowd forgot its shivvering and rose to shout for a rally. McNeely scored on Judge's sacrifice fly. Harris scored on J. Harris's single.

In the seventh inning intermission President Coolidge and his wife proved to be seasoned fans by rising to their feet for a stretch.

Marberry went to the mound for the Senators. Smith hit the ball straight for the bleachers but a wonderful one-hand catch by Rice robbed him of a home run. This was the most spectacular of the World Series. Marberry made two strike outs in this inning.

Bigbee was inserted as a pinch hitter for Kremer. He flied out. Moore singled. The game had to be stopped while over-enthusiastic fans were chased back to the stands. Carey singled to right field. The Washington crowd has begun to feel the cold, more and more. Cuyler was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Traynor flied out and the game was over.

H. Frank Lawrence, Paul Jones, Hugh Graham and Charles Graham went to Columbia today to see the Missouri-Nebraska football game.

FOOTBALL RESULTS. TODAY.

Missouri 7, Nebraska 6; playing 4th quarter.

SNOW COVERS EASTERN U. S.

NEW RECORD SET IN NEW YORK AND VERMONT.

MERCURY AT 25 HERE

J. Ross Fleetwood, County Farm Agent, Believes Frost Will Be Of More Benefit Than Damage.

New York, Oct. 10.—Icy winds swept New York and the entire East today. The temperature here dropped to 35 degrees and northern New York state is reported under a blanket of snow.

Snow, six inches deep, covered northern Vermont, where never in the memory of the oldest resident has such a fall occurred so early in October.

St. Albans had its street plows out clearing the sidewalks this morning.

Four inches fell in New Hampshire and Maine this morning.

Snow fell throughout the night in Quebec and Ontario, the earliest snowfall on record. It was still snowing in Montreal this morning.

The lowest temperature here last night was 25, according to J. R. Brink, official weather observer.

There was a heavy frost in this vicinity but J. Ross Fleetwood, Nodaway County farm agent, believes it will do more good than harm to the corn crop. The replanted or late grain, however, may suffer to some extent, Mr. Fleetwood said this morning, but he thinks the good will far overbalance the ill effects of the early frost.

Bandits Get $3,500 From K. C. Concern

Kansas City, Oct. 10.—Morning bandits escaped with $3,500 from the office of the Campbell Baking Co., here today when they held up S. P. Woodall, cashier, who was alone in the room. Woodall was counting the cash receipts of the drivers when two bandits covered him with revolvers, forcing him into the vault and looted the drawer. He was released by the night watchman.

"Babe" Ruth Will Go Under Knife Again

New York, Oct. 10.—Babe Ruth is about to go under the knife again. The famous slugger is back in New York, having been forced to forgo seeing the remaining games of the World's Series because his condition has taken a turn for the worse.

His illness is believed to be an aftermath of his illness last May. He is expected to enter St. Vincent's hospital this afternoon.

The Agriculture class has been studying grafting of trees this week and it is planning to make a poster exhibiting the different kinds of grafts.

"A Do A Kind Deed Every Day Club," was organized last Friday, with Bernice Griffey as president; Beulah Maier, as vice president; and Maxine Miller, as secretary and treasurer. The purpose of this organization is to teach the pupils to be kind to each other and to respect the rights o f others.

HEROES OF THE DEEP.

Divers who have been exploring the submarine S-51 deep down in the waters of the Atlantic deserve more recognition than they are likely to get. Peace tests their courage quite as severely as war tests the valor of the soldier and sailor, but day after day they quietly and indifferently play their hazardous and adventurous trade.

Members of both the navy and the army, in time of war, sometimes are subjected to greater dangers than these under-sea workers. The difference, however, is not great and is more than balanced by the fact that the perils of battle usually are faced by large groups of men, who give each other courage and support, and the fierce excitements of battle have an anesthetizing effect which is lacking for the diver in the dark and silent ocean depths.

The diver risks his life alone, and the danger that ever threatens him is the more fearful because it is so quiet. Yet men daily undertake these tasks as calmly and deliberately as an elevator man drops his car into the sub-basement.

Each of those recovered bodies from the torn hulk of the S-51 will be buried with the honors befitting a member of the United States navy but would the diver, should he meet death in the act of recovering those bodies, be deserving of any less recognition?

The modern home seems to have about everything desirable in it but the family.

The Atchison Globe thinks there is hope for the love sick young man but not for two or three years.

Mr. Coolidge showed a lot of towns how a President could have a quiet trip when he wanted it quiet.

School children often appreciate the value of an education when they want help from their parents on their lessons.

Both baseball games in the World series have been won by home runs. The home run is the only safe thing in a game like those.

Auto license fees and gasoline taxes have paid for 9,000 miles of new roads in the middle western states. So the auto is worthwhile after all.

Nothing has done so much to link the agricultural section of the United States with the rest of the world as the daily newspaper and the radio.

What Other Editors Say

THE SPIRIT THAT BUILDS A CITY.

Hannibal is a good city, because it is a city whose citizens cooperate in every enterprise for its growth and development, a city in which there is such a spirit among the people must necessarily go forward. It must necessarily grow bigger and better. It is a sure indication that a city is alive and wide awake when there is a spirit of cooperation between the people who live there.

Of course, there are a few people in Hannibal just as there are in every other good, wide-awake city, who are fortunate enough to make a good salary and live in ease and comfort, who find fault with the city. Just what reason they have for doing so is not apparent, but they are never interested in any movement of civic betterment; they are not touched with the spirit of civic pride. They are satisfied to hold a position or a job, that was made possible by the cooperative spirit of other people without helping in any way whatever themselves. It is fortunate, indeed, that Hannibal has fewer of this class of citizens than any other city of like size in the entire country. Somehow or other, fault finders and people with the "hookworm" do not find satisfaction in Hannibal, because there are so very few people with whom they may associate. They are in a class by themselves.

If you have been doing your part to help build Hannibal, you can make the personal application. Try the shoe on your foot, if it fits, wear it. If you have been among that small number, that insignificant number, who have not done your part in the matter of civic improvement and betterment, resolve from right now on, that you will take on new life, new energy, and that you will help in every way you can to build a still greater and better Hannibal.—Hannibal Courier-Post.

"A DOLLAR DOWN."

At a national business conference in Wellesley, Mass., the system of "a dollar down and a dollar a week" came in for warm debate.

"If the present rate of increase of installment sales continues," said one speaker, "it will be only a short time before a housewife will order a steak on the agreement that she is to pay 10 cents a week for it."

Another speaker, taking the opposite viewpoint, insisted that "installment purchasing is a form of saving. The purchaser is accumulating property by buying on time instead of spending cash."

A third questioned this view, maintaining that the purchaser on long-time payments is usually paying the equivalent of 20 or 25 per cent interest.

A fourth, admitting that this may be true, explained that the merchant is unable to make as low prices as he would like, when selling on the weekly payment plan, because it is troublesome and expensive to collect the money and there is always more or less loss.

Probably all these views are sound. If they are, it seems evident that as a general proposition, this particular plan of merchandising, now gaining such headway in America, is not really benefitting anybody in the long run. It would be better for merchants and patrons both if they could get back to a cash basis, or at least half way back—that is, back to a normal credit basis.—Yonkers, N. Y., Statesman.

COMPETITION AND PROGRESS.

Competition is the life of progress.

The radio having cut into the talking-machine business, the phonograph manufacturers had to bestir themselves, to make something better. So one company announces a mechanical and another an electrical improvement, either of which, it is claimed, will make sound reproduction perfect. Thus we shall continue to have two instruments, the radio to bridge space, and the phonograph to bridge time.

You will never hear Caruso by radio, nor Coolidge's speech, while he is delivering it, on the phonograph.—Cape Girardeau Southeast Missourian.

More Careless About Clothes and Speech

But American Statesmen Can Hold Their Own—American Women More Stylishly Attired.

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer

Washington—In two respects American statesmen show to a disadvantage in company with European public men.

They're less mindful of sartorial correctness. They don't know languages. This was brought out very conspicuously at the recent gathering of the Interparliamentary Union here.

The American delegates dressed well enough. Their suits were brushed and pressed and fit better than the Europeans'. Practically without exception they were ordinary sacks, with soft felt hats and tan shoes as often as not.

The Europeans, equally almost without exception, never appeared in anything less than the fullest "morning dress"—cutaway, pearl gray trousers, plug hat, patent leathers and spats, gloves, monocle in more than a few cases—the whole regalia.

With the women it was just the reverse. Many of the foreign delegates had their wives with them.

For style they were nowhere, compared with their hostesses—at least, according to American ideas.

The Latins, among the visiting women, came the nearest to measuring up to the requirements of American tastes in dress, but even the gowns of these appeared to awaken no feelings of envy, so far as feminine Washington was concerned.

Why the old world outclasses America linguistically is easy to understand. Living at close quarters with other nationalities, the Europeans naturally learn one another's tongues.

The average American, surrounded only by his own kind, except along the Mexican border, where he does acquire a Spanish smattering, lacks the opportunity and incentive to learn languages, or to practice them even if he tries.

Most women long for a home with costly furniture and phonograph records which play on one side only.

The laziest man in town has quit selling coal and gone into the ice business for the winter.

Two can live on love alone until time to eat.

When you see a man standing with his wife before a window full of hats you know she is boss.

Music hath no charms to soothe the savage phonograph, player piano or squaking radio.

NEXT WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY

Compiled by
The State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia.
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary. October 11-17.

This week commemorates the best known, and possibly the greatest speech delivered on Missouri soil. The date was October 16, 1849. The place was the old Court House in St. Louis. The subject was a railroad to the Pacific. The orator was Thomas Hart Benton. The key-note, struck by a master hand, was these words: "There is the East; there is India."

The National Railroad Convention of 1849 was sitting in St. Louis. Its purpose was to select a route from the Valley to the Pacific. Waterways, the economic salvation of the Middle West, were in their heyday of glory and service, but could not meet the new condition. The ports of China had been thrown open in 1843 to world commerce. The rich trade of the Orient was waiting exploitation.

Significant events characterized this fourth decade of nineteenth century history in America. Texas had been annexed. The Oregon country had been added. The close of the Mexican War had brought under the flag a domain stretching to the Pacific, and the North and South were deadlocked over dividing the spoils. Cholera had ravaged the land and taken its thousands in St. Louis. And gold had been discovered in California. But the West was "more interested in the Pacific railroad than any other subject of the time." It was this subject which drew 889 delegates from twelve states to the St. Louis railroad convention of 1849.

Four rival routes were before the nation. The Northern route was to cross the continent from Lake Michigan to Puget Sound. The southern route was to connect Memphis with San Diego. The Central or Benton route ran from St. Louis to San Francisco. The compromise, or S. A. Douglass route had its eastern terminus at Council Bluffs with privately built branches to Memphis, St. Louis and Chicago. All were to be built with federal aid.

Benton, the greatest statesman west of the Mississippi, was rounding his famous six Roman lustrums in the United States Senate. He had dominated the Democratic party in Missouri for nearly thirty years. His hold on her people was almost without parallel. The peer of Webster, Clay and Calhoun, he stood out as a great national leader from a western border state. Secure in his strength, prestige, and power, his political record untarnished, his private life clean, his convictions lofty and steadfast, blending the practical with the ideal, this sturdy Roman, well named "Old Bullion," was a fitting tribute for his people before the national railroad convention being held in St. Louis.

On the second day of the convention, Senator Benton was loudly called upon. Despite the undercurrent of rivalry among the delegates, the great statesman was greeted with "rapturous applause." Benton wisely refrained from openly urging the central route, although his appeal for a Pacific railroad was bottomed on the St. Louis line. His speech, which brought the convention "up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm and was greeted with great applause," closed with these words:

"Let us rise to the grandeur of the occasion. Let us complete the grand design of Columbus by putting Europe and Asia into communication, and that to our advantage, through the heart of our country. Let us give to his ships, converted into cars, a continued course unknown to all former times. Let us make the iron road, and make it from sea to sea—states and individuals making it east of the Mississippi, the nation making it west. Let us now rise above anything sectional, personal, local. Let us beseech the National Legislature to build the great road upon the great national line which unites Europe and Asia—San Francisco at one end, St. Louis in the middle, the national metropolis and great commercial emporium at the other; and which shall be adorned with its crowning honor—the colossal statue of the great Columbus—whose design it accomplishes, hewn from a granite mass of a peak of the Rocky Mountains, overlooking the road—the mountain itself a pedestal and the statue a part of the mountain—pointing with outstretched arm to the western horizon, and saying to the flying passengers, "There is the East; there is India."

TOBACCO TAX IS PROPOSED

WOULD BE USED TO SUPPORT SCHOOLS OF STATE.

WILL BE SUBMITTED

Governor Baker's Plan Will Raise Permanent Fund For Educational Institutions Of Missouri.

Jefferson City, Mo., October 10.—The draft of a constitutional amendment, proposed by Gov. Baker to be submitted by initiative petitions to the voters in 1926, the purpose being to raise a permanent fund for the support of the State University, teacher colleges, Lincoln University and the public schools, was completed by Assistant Attorney General Crowder and was submitted to the Governor for his approval.

Crowder's draft, which is subject to alterations and revisions at a finance conference between Baker, Senator Williams and others, October 19, proposes to tax both cigarettes and cigars, minerals and inheritances and to convert the present 5 per cent tax levy for general purposes into a school levy.

Tax Not to Exceed 10 per cent.

The amendment proposes a tax of not to exceed 10 per cent of the retail value of cigarettes and cigars. The amount of the tax should the amendment be adopted would have to be fixed by the General Assembly. A measure was introduced into the last Legislature to tax cigarettes but never got out of committee in the House. Both Iowa and Arkansas levy a tax upon cigarettes.

The amendment provides for a "severance tax" upon mineral deposits, including lead, zinc, coal, iron, sand gravel, marble, granite, oil, gas and other commercial minerals of not to exceed 1 per cent of the market value, the amount of the tax to be fixed by legislative enactment.

Text of Amendment.

Following is the text of the proposed amendment:

"Be is resolved by the people of the State of Missouri, as follows:

"That at the general election to be held in the State of Missouri on Tuesday, the second day of November 926, there shall be submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following proposed constitutional amendment, to wit:

"Section 1. That article 11 of the Constitution of the State of Missouri entitled 'Education,' be and the same is hereby amended by repealing section 7 of said article, and adopting in lieu, thereof, six new sections to be numbered section 7, section 7A, section 7B, section 7C, section 7D, and section 7E, which said new sections shall read as follows:

"Section 7. In addition to any taxes that may be levied for state purposes as authorized by section 8 of article 10 of the Constitution there shall be levied and collected in the same manner that state and county taxes are levied and collected, five cents on the one hundred dollars assessed valuation on all the taxable property of the state. All moneys derived from said fund for the support of the free public schools of the State of Missouri, the State University, including Rolla School of Mines, the State Teachers' Colleges and the Lincoln University and shall be and stand appropriated without legislative action, for and to said uses and purposes, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever.

"Section 7A—There shall be levied and collected a privilege or license tax, to be known as a 'severance tax,' not to exceed 1 percentum of the market value, on all minerals, mineral deposits and ores, including lead, zinc, coal, iron, sand, gravel, stone, marble, granite, oil, gas, Fuller's earth and other commercial clays, and all other minerals whatsoever, which are mined, quarried, taken or severed from any land within the State of Missouri for commercial purposes, such tax to be levied upon the gross value of such minerals at the place where produced, and collected from the producer thereof at such time and in such manner as shall be provided by the General Assembly, and the General Assembly shall enact such legislation as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes and objects of this section. All moneys derived from said severance tax shall constitute a permanent fund for the support of the free public schools of the State of Missouri, the State University, including Rolla School of Mines, the State Teachers' Colleges, and the Lincoln University, and shall be and stand appropriated, without legislative action, for and said uses, and purposes, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever.

"Section 7B—There shall be levied and collected a privilege license tax upon each package of cigarettes, and each cigar sold at retail within the State of Missouri, said tax not to exceed 10 percentum of the retail value of each package of cigarettes, and each cigar sold. All moneys derived from said tax shall constitute a permanent fund for the support of the free public schools of the State of Missouri the State University, including Rolla School of Mines, the State Teachers' Colleges, and the Lincoln University and shall be and stand appropriated without legislative action, for and to said uses and purposes, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever.

"Section 7C—There shall be levied and collected a tax on inheritance and the rates for such tax shall not be less than the rates fixed by an act of the fifty-first General Assembly, approved August 15, 1921, and found in the first extra session acts of 1921, at pages 26 to 28, inclusive. All moneys derived from said tax shall constitute a permanent fund for the support of the free public schools of the State of Missouri, the State University, including the Rolla School of Mines, the State Teachers' Colleges, and the Lincoln University, and shall be and stand appropriated, without legislative action, for and to said uses and purposes, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever.

"Section 7D—All moneys derived from the taxes authorized by the foregoing sections of this article shall be apportioned by the General Assembly for each year, and not less than sixty per centum of said funds shall be apportioned to the free public schools of the State of Missouri. Provided, that no part of said fund shall be apportioned or given to any public school district as special aid unless authorized by section 11 of article X of this constitution.

"Section 7E—In no case shall the amount apportioned to the free public schools of this state be less than one-third of the total state revenue, exclusive of the interest and sinking and to the support of public schools.

Health Department Under Consideration

Washington, Oct. 10.—A new federal department of the government—a department of education or a department of education and health is now under consideration by the Administration, James A. Tobey, Director of the Institute for Government Research said today.

"The average length of life in this country would probably be increased from its present amount of 58 years in the next quarter of a century if Federal health leadership under central direction is established," Tobey said.

"Thirty-seven different government bureaus are now undertaking public health activities. All the major administrative units of the government are concerning themselves with this subject and in doing the work are acting more or less independently.

"While only about one half of one percent of the total annual Federal Budget is alloted to health education work three times that amount is being spent by Uncle Sam for medical relief. A more effective operation or preventive activities would result in economy in administering curative measures in the future."

Tobey said he is now making a complete survey for all Federal health work and formulating plans for a centralized Health and Education Department.

practiced.

Miss Glassburner concluded with, "If Christ's church in the western land smoulders on the job it is possible that propaganda may spread faster than the Kingdom of God in China. But, if we are willing to follow Christ, we may be absolutely certain that the greatest movement of modern times shall succeed.

"What are we going to do with this day of opportunity? If we are willing to double our efforts, we shall realize the golden home of our dreams."

Following Miss Glassburner's talk, Miss Edyth Huff, missionary to India, sang a native song. She was dressed in a sara, the native garment of India. Miss Orvia Proctor, missionary to China, also sang a Chinese song.

The program tonight promises to be one of interest, particularly to the children. It has been designated as junior rally and everything will be in line with the part children play in missions.

The program will open with a song by the junior, primary, and beginners' departments of the First Methodist Church, which will be followed by a regular meeting of the King's Heralds and Little Light Bearers.

Next a play, "How Some Dollies Came to Go as Missionaries," will be presented. This is the story of a party in which four little girls decide to send their dolls to the missionaries.

The cast for the play follows:

Mary, the hostess—Doris Wray.

Bertha—Berneta McKee.

Olive—Ruth Brumbaugh.

Dell—Edna Bell Welborn.

Following the play Misses Orvia Proctor, Mamie Glassburner, and Emma Amburn, missionaries on furlough, will tell something of the children of China and Burma.

Particular stress is being laid on tomorrow's program. In the morning the Rev. M. B. Fuller, pastor of the Lakewood M. E. Church, Cleveland, will speak at the regular Sunday morning service. Dr. Fuller, whose son is a missionary in China, has just returned from a visit to the Orient. He visited fourteen countries and came in touch with many missionaries.

Tomorrow afternoon the farewell service for outgoing missionaries will be held. At this time Miss Glassburner will welcome the new missionaries to the field.

There will also be an afternoon meeting for negro women at the African M. E. Church at 3:30 o'clock. At this time there will be an address by the evangelist secretary of the Southern Missouri Conference.

Demonstrations by young people and their officers will be the main part of tomorrow night's program, which will be the last of the four-day convention.

Bishop Brown Will "Fight Case Through"

Homer Has Surely Been Up to Some Old Tricks Again

The Nation's Business for October has the following:

The Blue-Stripe-in-the-Mail-Bags campaign to stop waste has seized the imagination of the more careful people of our great country, and is spreading further than you, perhaps, imagine. In Maryville, Mo., we are informed, a Mr. Croy discovered the back collar button to be leading a useless, parasitical existence. He shows that the back collar button is nothing more than a tradition, representing in original cost, upkeep and operation more than a hundred million dollars annually. An association for the Abolition of the Back Collar Button is thriving. Some of Mr. Croy's neighbors feel that proper respect for tradition, if nothing else, demands that one keep the back collar button. So they are organizing the S. P. B. C. B., the Society for the Preservation of the Back Collar Button. And each, we hope, will have a paid secretary.

She met the bootlegger through her husband, she said, and he gave her two dresses with League's consent.

Harvey L. Haines will motor to Sabetha, Kan., tomorrow morning to visit his brother, Charles Haines.

What Jerry Says

"Let me live in a house by the side
of the road,
And be a friend to man,"
Was written before the automobile,
Or building hard roads began.

Now days if you want to be a friend
To the public who travel by,
You better live way back from the road,
Where the brush is thick and high.

These tourists will borrow all you will lend,
From your axe to your water pail,
But to bring them back where they belong,
They almost always fail.

And when I'm looking around the place,
For things the hired man needs,
I find them out there stuck in the mud,
Or kicked out in the weeds.

They'll camp in your yard and litter
the lawn,
With remnants of picnic lunches,
The boxes, the papers and mellon
rinds,
They leave them around in bunches.

They steal your mellons and roasting ears,
Just for a little fun,
Your chickens, your pigs, and your jersey cow,
They shoot with a target gun.

You can live in a house by the side
of the road,
And be a friend to man,
But for me I'll live way back in the field,
As far away as I can.

Too Much Efficiency

By E. J. Rath

"Where did you come from, Horace?"

"I was in the dining-room, sir."

"A distance of some twenty or twenty-five yards. You occupied thirty-two seconds in walking that distance. Now, while I do not require you to run, hereafter I shall expect you to cut your time in half. That will allow you sixteen seconds—ample. Please call the other servants and have them all report to me here at once."

A GREAT COMIC STORY

The First Installment Will Appear

DEMOCRAT-FORUM and TRIBUNE

Do Not Miss A Single Installment

"Too Much Efficinecy' 'is one of those stories filled to over-flowing with "chuckles" and "loud laughs." Once you start the story you will be waiting for the remaining installments to appear, and there are 36 of them.

"Too Much Efficiency" is another masterpiece by the author of "The Nervous Wreck." Many will find it even more funny.

It is the story of an UNMARRIED efficiency engineer who attempts to manage a household according to the latest methods of scientific economy in business.

Henry Hedge, the efficiency engineer who undertakes the task of reforming operating standards in a Fifth Avenue Mansion, carries his expertness even to business cards. When presented to the family of John W. Brooke, his abbreviated card states very simply "H. Hedge, E. E."

Later he shows the butler how to walk more efficiently and the cook how to bake pies scientifically. There are dozens of similarly hilarious situations told in the author's best laugh provoking fashion. H. Hedge also tries his hand at scientific love-making, with nearly disastrous results.

Tried the Dead Rat Plan

By DON MARK LEMON

(Copyright.)

I DON'T know who wrote the story. It was a newspaper yarn, taken from an exchange that probably had got it of a syndicate—but it certainly was a clever little sketch.

I read it on the train one afternoon while going home from the bank, and, when I had finished it, I slapped my knee and exclaimed, "By George! that's neat." Then I got to wondering if anybody had ever tried the scheme, or had the writer thought it up himself, just for a story plot.

When I got home I read it to my wife, and she laughed and said there was a rat in the cage down cellar, and if it were gone in the morning she would know that I had taken it with me to the bank. Of course she was only jesting, but it went to show how easily one could carry out the idea in the story, and I must have looked thoughtful, for my wife suddenly came over and threw her arms about me and exclaimed: "Why, Will, you wouldn't do such a dreadful thing!"

Just to tease her, I looked sly and asked her if it were a fair-sized rat in the trap, or only a mouse. Well, she doesn't know yet how to take me when I'm joking, and pretty soon she went down cellar and when I strolled down a little later, the trap and rat were both gone.

You see, the newspaper story was something like this: One day at a bank a bundle of twenty one-thousand bills was found missing from the cashier's booth, and things were getting to look bad for the cashier, when the teller saw the tail of a rat sticking out from under a desk that set against the grating inclosing the cashier's booth.

Well, they moved the desk, and by George! if that rat hadn't got himself caught between the bars and desk and strangled to death, with a bunch of five-dollar bills in his mouth. I think it was about twenty bills.

They all congratulated the cashier. Of course the rat had stolen the missing twenty thousand, and afterwards came back for more bills, and had been caught and strangled in the grating. They hunted hours for his hole, but couldn't find it. However, the rear door of the bank opened on a short, blind alley, and it was plain as Texas on the map that the rat had stolen in that way, and gone out the same way with the twenty thousand, and the bills were somewhere outside in the alley. But they never found where.

It was just here that the writer of the story got down to the neatest little stroke. I don't remember just his words, but they were something in this order: Why couldn't the cashier have brought a strangled rat in his pocket to the bank, stolen the twenty thousand, placed a package of five-dollar bills in the rat's mouth, and slipped him under the desk? That would have turned all suspicion from the cashier, and when you consider how simple a thing it was to do, and how few men in the world are strictly honest, you finished reading the story with the conviction that the cashier had stolen the money and done the trick himself.

Well, that's the newspaper sketch. Now, here's my story, and mine is where the fun comes in. About eleven o'clock next day, down at the bank where I worked—I mean the day after the sketch appeared in the newspaper—we discovered that a bunch of bills had been mislaid, then another bunch, then another and another; and altogether two thousand dollars in bills was found missing from drawers and baskets.

Suddenly I smelt a mouse, as the saying goes, and began hunting for a rat. I found him! Then the cashier found another rat, about the same time the teller found another. Then the president saw a tail sticking from under a desk, and poked out the fattest rat you ever saw.

I was laughing by this time till I could hardly stoop to hunt for rats. You should have been around the bank yourself that morning—it was better than having money there.

Well, altogether, we found seven rats, every one of them strangled and dead and each with a bunch of bills in his mouth. The bills we recovered came to seven hundred dollars, but thirteen hundred was still missing. So you see that little newspaper story cost our bank just one thousand three hundred dollars, and we had to hush it up or lose our reputation, for seven dishonest men in one bank was a bit too much.

But those seven dead rodents, hidden all about the office! I think I would have laughed had I lost the thirteen hundred myself.

Seven Modern Servants

The electric fan, iron, toaster, cleaner, percolator, washer and air heater are the electric appliances in most common use throughout the United States. As such they have been called "the seven electric servants of the home." At average domestic rates a family of five can use these seven electric appliances as much as is ordinarily necessary for from a dollar to a dollar and a quarter a week for the needed electricity.

Profiting by Mistakes

Missouri Towns and Queer Names

BY GUY FORSHEY.

(Springfield Leader).

Some day when you have nothing more exciting to read, try spending a couple of hours with a map of Missouri and see what you can see. It's a highly moral form of recreation, approved even for Sunday afternoon by the bluest of blue laws, and the best part of it is, it may really furnish entertaining information. When you are touring you probably get a lot of kick out of making smart cracks at the expense of little country towns along the road which, like some of us, got started in life with the handicap—or maybe the advantage—of freakish names. Try it on the map. You may be surprised at the range of possibilities offered. Here are some facts that a few hours' study of the Atlas revealed.

In Missouri there are 1852 cities, towns and villages which have postoffices. The one with the longest name is South Branch Junction, in Audrain county, and honors for the shortest really ought to go to Short, but they are divided among a dozen or more three-letter burgs, such as Oto, Oby, Ike, Ira, Ebb and Ink. Boys' names were given to some 182 towns and villages and girls' names went to 20. One learns with interest that in this illustrious commonwealth there is a Boss, a Hero, a Hoosier and a Crook. It has a Pippin, a Rubber Neck, a Gang, a Surprise, a Licking and some Arnica. It has an Arab, but no Sheik; a Cleopatra, but no Antony, (although it has a Mark); but then one is gratified to find both Venus and Adonis, Adam and Eve, Noah and an Ark.

One might reasonably expect this state to exhibit a holier atmosphere than one usually observes, because it has no less than 17 saints besides the celebrated triumvirate of Louis, Joseph and Charles. It might be expected also to present an air of bustle and stir, for it has Enterprise, Competition, Commerce and Success. Farmers find it a land of plenty because it is Fertile and boasts a Harp and Piggs, Jewels and gold are abundant for Eldorado Springs up from an Eminence gilded with Pearl, Topaz and Diamond. Tallent it has, and Freedom, but withal, a Thorn in its side. It has Prohibition. Alas, it has Enough.

Of titles there is no dearth in Missouri. Look at the blue blood. Here are towns named King, Queen, Princess, Kaiser, Monarch, Czar, Duke, Earl, Noble and some Peers. Beauty also abounds, for down in Phelps county there is a Blooming Rose, and a Blue Eye sparkles from Stone. In its Forest Green of Pine, Spruce, Cypress, Birch Tree, Dogwood, Sycamore and Red Oak, a Deer and a Fawn follow the Dog Run over High Ridge toward Big Spring and leave in their wake a Buckhorn. A Birdsong rings from the Greenwood, while in the Grassy Field the Dove, the Sparrow, and Thrush and the Red Bird disport themselves in Joy and Bliss.

There is Romance, too, in Missouri. Under the Lone Elm Clarence meets Clara just from School and declares there is Nonsuch. A great Kidder is Clarence. "Whynot Neck?" ask he "in my Buick Sedan we can drive down Long Lane." There, he thinks no Eye can see him Kissinger. But Clara replies: "It's Nogo, Kiddo."

There are Koons and Kuhns in Missouri, and, withal, a little Topsy growing up; there is Novelty and a Minimum of Value. There are hills and hills. Look at them—High Hill, Stone Hill, Cedar Hill, Flint Hill, Hickory Hill, Ash Hill—and there is a Sunny Slope. In Laclede county one finds a Sleeper, but there plenty of Speed in Cooper. There is Charity in Dallas, Aid in Stoddard, Loyalty in Laclede and Amity in De Kalb. There is Tea in Gasconade, Coffey in Daviess and Reform in Callaway, the Highway Commission will tell you it's needed, too. In Maries county you have to Paydown, but they meet you Half Way in Knox, and in Stoddard they are still Kindegy. In Osage there is something Useful to which visitors are always Welcome.

Down in Taney county, on the southern border, they must have figured on making a short stay of it when they founded Protem. In Franklin the trail blazers seem to have started a hamlet early in the week, because they called it Monday. Texas county has an Evening shade and in Shannon they named a village Alley. That may have been because it wasn't even a wide place in the road, or, possibly, because it was also the abiding place of a Rat. They are a little Flip in Shannon, anyway.

But it is not Fairdealing to be too hard on Shannon. It isn't so bad beside some of the others. We find they are Peculiar in Cass, Crisp in Dade, Mystic in Sullivan, Moody in Howell, and Braggadocio in Pemiscott, Radical in Stone and Redd in Stoddard. What, pray tell, will be the Fate of this fine commonwealth? What, indeed, with Defiance in St Charles and Jasper full of Dynamite? One observes with alarm that a Hurricane rages in Lollinger, while in McDonald a Cyclone whirls along its way.

Tennessee looks on and says there ought to be a little more old-time religion in this land of ours—a little more Biblical atmosphere. Well haven't we got it? The Biblical atmosphere, I mean. What is the matter with Job, Moab, Canan, Nebo, Elijah, Sampson and Jerico? What about Boaz and Ruth and Naomi? We even have a Golden Rule, and a lot of other things of Worth as well. We have Faith in Miller (county), Hope in Osago and Wisdom in Benton, even if there is Anutt in Dent. We note with satisfaction that they are Wise in Barton. Witty in Douglas and Safe in Maries. What if they are a Little Blue in Jackson? They are on top of the world in Apex. In this great State of the two bears, be it known, there are real Folk; enough, in fact, for Three States.

So let us render our tribute to Missouri; to its Pioneer, its Nursery and its Freeman. The Liberty of Seventy-six endures. Across a Vernal Ozark Vista we gaze aloft upon a Rocky Mount and decry thereon an Eagle. A Boomer is Missouri; it must Advance. We have only to Cull out the Lemons and then we'll have a right to Bragg and make a lot of Racket.

Fifty Years Ago

(Taken from the Nodaway Democrat, October 7, 1875).

The first annual reception of the Maryville Dancing Club came off at Union Hall in this city on last Thursday night, quite a large number of ladies and gentlemen from abroad being in attendance. It was the grandest thing in the dancing line that has yet transpired in Maryville and was a perfect success.

Our enterprising friends, Joe Jackson and A. T. Ellis, started for St. Louis last Sunday morning. We did not learn whether they secured "Old Aunt Sallie" as a traveling companion or not. We mean the old lady the boys were throwing at at the fair grounds last week.

Elder J. V. Hines, a noted preacher, will commence a series of discourses in this city next Sunday evening at the Advent Christian Chapel.

During last Friday while at the Fair we noticed four three-year old apple trees belonging to James Carver, Esq., proprietor of the Guilford Nursery, which had fifteen large and finely shaped apples on them.

G. H. Wood, Esq., who resides three miles east of Maryville, had on exhibition at the fair four stalks of corn, one of which was fifteen and a half feet in height, the other three each fifteen feet. Mr. Wood offered ten cents to any person who would reach up to the ear on those stalks. This was not done, however, as it was ten feet up to the ears. Mr. Wood exhibited seven ears that weighed twelve pounds.

Maryville comes out $15 to the good after paying for re-paving West Third street from Dunn to Buchanan street, which was damaged by the heavy show wagons of Ringling Bros. on the night of September 18. The circus paid $500 for the damages on West Third street.

The families of Charles L. Robinson and Edward Booth have retained the law firm of Ramsey & Martin to represent them in claims against Ringling Bros. circus.

The Angell & Morrison meat market on North Main street has been purchased by F. J. Klaas of Sheridan, who has taken charge of the property.

J. C. Johnson, formerly Burlington agent at Maryville, but later traveling freight agent of the same road, will take the position of assistant cashier in the Nodaway Valley Bank. Mr. Johnson will move his family here about November 1.

Efforts are now being made to get the seventeenth annual Lyceum Course in Maryville and W. F. Smith has charge of the canvass for the sale of tickets. It will be necessary to sell 400 tickets before the course is assured Maryville.

The Gillam, Bellows & Pierce Company moved Monday into their fine new offices in the Mulholland building. These offices were fitted up at a cost of between $3,000 to $4,000 and and are connected with the Maryville National Bank by a lobby.

Youth Tells Jury Death Is Accidental

Everett Adams Declares At Sedalia Trial He Did Not Intend To Kill New York School Teacher.

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 10.—Everett Adams, 18-year-old high school youth, took the witness stand here today and in a clear calm voice told the jury the fatal shooting of Prof. Aden R. Clawson was accidental.

Immediately upon informing the twelve men who will decide his fate he did not intend to kill the Lodi N. Y. school teacher, Adams sobbed bitterly. His mother, Mrs. Henry Adams of Wilmington, Ohio, who sat near the witness box, fainted and fell into the arms of her husband.

The scene in the courtroom was dramatic. Many women in the large crowd put their handkerchiefs to their faces and men stirred uneasily in their seats. Adams talked in a firm voice, easily audible in all parts of the courtroom. He answered questions without hesitation, looked the attorneys and the jury straight in the eye.

Questioned by defense attorneys, the youth told how he had left his home on July 30 because of rumors. He said he took his father's revolver and about $4 with him.

Series Is Reported in Foreign Countries

New York, Oct. 10.—In addition to the millions of Americans who are following the world series games daily through newspapers, bulletin boards and radio accounts furnished by the United Press, direct from the ball parks, foreign countries are displaying the greatest interest in the history of the annual baseball classic.

A complete box score is being cabled daily by the United Press to the Osaka Mainichi of Osaka, Japan. This is the first time a foreign newspaper has attempted publication of a box score of a series game. The box score transmitted is in addition to several hundred words description of the game, the tolls for such transmission alone being thirty cents a word.

South American newspapers also are receiving stories of each day's games through the United Press, while extensive files are being handled each day to Europe.

Transmission of the play by play description of the games from Pittsburgh or Washington is instaneous to all United Press clients, over wires direct from the press stand.

The final result of a game is known throughout this country at the instant of the last out and within two or three minutes, or before the spectators in the ball parks have left their seats the result is also known in London.

Dairy Show Opens; Offers High Awards

More Than 1,000 Head of America's Finest Livestock Assembled From Twenty-Two States.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—More than 1,000 head of America's finest livestock from twenty two states and from Canada were assembled in the state fair ground for the 1925 National Dairy Exposition, which opened here today to continue to October 17.

The exhibits were the champions and leading prize winners of the foremost state fairs and livestocks shows in North America this year, having been entered in competition for highest honors of the year.

One of the events that is especially attractive to farmers and agricultural leaders in the newer dairy sections is the sale of grade dairy cows, which come to the Exposition each year as outstanding examples of what can be accomplished in the hands of the average farmer in the development of profitable dairy herds. These cows are first exhibited for prizes and then sold.

Twenty-one states sent their champion boys' and girls' club champion dairy cattle judging teams, and dairy demonstrations teams from twenty states will compete for the nation's highest honor in dairy club work. The club winning the cattle judging championship at the Exposition the last three years was awarded a trip with all expenses paid to the Royal Live Stock Show, held each year at London. It is planned that this year's winner will also be selected to represent the United States at this greatest of English agricultural shows.

Students' live stock judging teams from twenty-one state agricultural colleges in the United States and one from Canada will compete for the trophy that goes each year to the winner of this event.

Vocational high schools in twenty states sent cattle judging teams for the national contest that is growing more popular each year.

In recognition of their achievement in developing herds of cows to a yearly production of over 300 pounds butterfat, 3,544 dairymen, members of 471 cow testing associations in 28 states have been placed upon the Honor Roll of the National Dairy Association. Diplomas will be awarded to each of these dairymen.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Wrapped in Blankets

London, Oct. 10.—"Liza," "Topsy," "Uncle Tom" and all the slave girls of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fame have been rescued from disaster quite as tragic as ever threatened the original characters of the famous story. And they have been rescued by blankets.

On the eve of the presentation in London of a musical version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" the censor withdrew the license for its presentation on the grounds that the costumes worn by the slave girls in the slave market scene were so abbreviated as to bring gasps even to the most hardened first-nighter.

Disaster stared the slaves in the face, as there was no time in which to secure new costumes before the initial presentation. At the last minute someone suggested that the censor might be satisfied if the slaves wore blankets to conceal their nudity. Bedrooms were raided, blankets donned, and the censor called in again all within a short space of time.

"All right" he said, "The blankets are better than nothing."

Whereupon the license was re-issued in the nick of time, and the show staged with the slave girls wrapped in blankets.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Wheat rallied to a sharply higher close on the Board of Trade today. The strength prevented inevitable drops in coarse grains.

Adoption of reform measures yesterday instilled a feeling of confidence among conservatives. The tight cash situation attracted greater part of the trade to the preclusion of a moderate by bullish government review of yesterday. A salient feature in the day's trade was sharp gains in the December old. That delivery went to a premium over the May.

Corn was inclined to drop under pressure from a bearish government report.

Oats followed corn.

Further liquidation weakened provisions.

Suit Costs $250

Here is the new flying suit for airmail pilots and army aviators attempting altitude flights. Tests at McCook Field, Dayton, O., have proved that a lining of fawn reindeer fur makes the warmest suit. The hides of 18 to 22 young reindeer are required to make one suit, the total cost being $250.

Corn Husk King

Here is W. E. Blain, of Wichita, Kans., "the corn husk king." He pays $120 a ton for corn husks and sells them for hot tamale wrappers. His only complaint is that he can't get enough corn husks to supply the demand.

Judge J. V. Bourland, of Fort Smith, Ark., believes his collar button holds the world's record for long service. He has worn it every day for 47 years. It was made from a $5 gold piece given him by his wife, when they were sweethearts in grammar school.

POWER SHOWN IN 3 TO 0 WIN

BEARCATS POTENTIALLY STRONG IN FOOTBALL.

O'BANION KICKS GOAL

Peru Fullback Stars in Game But Is Injured Slightly in Final Period.

The Maryville Teachers won from Peru yesterday, 3 to 0. "Bun" O'Banion broke the deadlock of a scoreless first half early in the third period when he booted a goal from placement on about the 25 yard line. Then the teams settled back into goose-egg ball for the remainder of the game. When the final whistle blew, however, the Bearcats had launched an offensive which had worked the ball half the length of the field and placed it in the shadow of the visitors' goal.

Those are the facts of the game to the outsider, but the battle made evident many more which are of relatively greater importance.

The greatest fact of the game was that the Bearcats showed themselves to be potentially a strong football team. Of course, there were the rough places and there were the instances of poor football, but these are to be expected of any team in the first games of a season. The striking thing was that there is latent power in the team, and by mid-season Coach Lawrence should have an eleven of green-legged warriors which would be a credit to any institution and a source of worry to any opponent.

It was not until the last moments of the game that the Bearcats came into their own. In the last half-dozen plays they found their football legs, so to speak, and it was then to be seen what followers of the game may expect in the games which are to come.

Sportsmanlike coaching was reflected in the game yesterday. The game was hard. There was much of the smashing driving brand of football, but, coupled at all times with it, was the spirit of fair play which caused a Bearcat to hastily jerk a fallen Nebraskan to his feet, or a visitor to call time out when a Bearcat had fallen. Particularly was this the case of Capt. Sam England, of the local eleven. No man drove harder, but none drove clearer, which in itself is the essence of true sport.

But, more about the game.

If anything, the advantage was with Peru. Play was inclined to be in the Maryville territory a little more than in that of the visitors. Peru led in first downs, nine to seven, and three sensational runs for the visitors more than balanced one for the locals.

The nine Peru punts averaged thirty-six yards, while eight for Maryville averaged four yards less. Eads, who did the kicking in the first half, was having difficulty getting his toe behind them, and a ten-yard kick by O'Banion later in the game cut the average somewhat.

Maryville fumbled three times and recovered twice, while four baubles marred the clearness of the Peru offense.

But one forward pass was tried by the Bearcats, and it failed. Peru completed one pass out of two, but failed to gain ground on the attempt.

Football fans were pleased with the fact that the Maryville team suffered no penalties. Twice the referee punished the visitors with fifteen yards and twice Peru was off side.

Speaking of stars—there was one, and he was from Peru. His name was Beuttgenbach, he played fullback, and he was an all-conference man for three years. His offensive play was disastrous to Bearcat defense in the first half, and his defensive work was of the calibre best fitting an all-man. In the latter part of the game he was injured and taken from the game.

For Maryville there were no stars. The work of all the men was acceptable. To single out one and give him laurels would be unjust to his mates.

The boys played well. There is room for improvement, and it is certain to come.

The line up:

Maryville: Berst, le; S. England, c, lt; Hamilton, lg; Graham, c; Foutz, rg; Moentmann, rt; Cox, re; Willoughby, qb; Eads, rhb; Search, lhb; Masters, fb.

Peru: Haywood, le; Driver, lt; Garris, lg; Bunch, c; Williams, rg; Higgins, c, rt; Carter, re; McElroy, q; Bell, rhb; Zorn, lhb; Beuttgenbach, fb.

HEADY TEAM BEATS TARKIO

LOCAL HIGH ELEVEN SCORES IN EACH QUARTER.

IT HOLDS IN PINCHES

Coach W. H. Herbert Is Pleased With Spoofhounds' Showing Against Atchison County Gridders.

Scoring four touchdowns, one in each quarter, the Maryville High School football team trimmed Tarkio 25 to 6 yesterday at Tarkio. Playing with a team weakened by injuries, the locals were not expected to make such a strong showing, and W. H. Herbert, coach, seemed quite gratified over the showing of his charges.

"The boys played heady football. They worked well on the offense, and their defense was strong," he said. "The backfield, particularly, played well, and much credit for the ... is due Cockayne and Smith. Bratcher showed great improvement, and Curfman, at center was highly adequate."

Three of the Maryville touchdowns were scored by the tow-headed Cockayne. Two of the markers came from running plays, and the third was the result of a forward pass. Kissinger scored the fourth touchdown on an off-tackle smash. Cockayne kicked one goal after touchdown out of four attempts.

The Maryville line had a faculty of holding in the pinches and did not relax until they had the game on ice. When they did weaken perceptably, Tarkio scored her lone touchdown.

Kissinger punted particularly well in the last half. In the earlier periods he had a shifting wind in his face and his kicks lacked distance. His average was about 35 yards, however.

Alsup, at left end, recovered two fumbles, one of which immediately resulted in a touchdown. Holt, at the other end, also played well.

The Tarkio line was the strong point of that team. The two tackles weighed 175 pounds each.

Although Maryville entered the game with several injured players, there were no casualties.

Next week the Maryville team goes to Maysville for what shows promise of being the hardest game of the season.

Pickering journeyed to Burlington Junction yesterday and returned with the long end of a 18-5 score. McKee, Pickering forward, led the scoring with six field goals and two free throws. The game, which was fast, was played before a large crowd of spectators.

The entire Burlington Junction squad was used in an effort to stop the scoring of the Pickering team: McKee and Richard, forwards; McGinness, center; and Loch and Swinford, guards.

Donnis Hood of the Pickering alumni team refereed the game.

The Guilford boys and girls went to Barnard yesterday and won a double header from the Barnard High School teams. A co-incidence of the game was that in each instance the score was 17 to 12.

At Elmo yesterday, Quitman won a doubleheader. Both games were boys' teams. The first team won, 24 to 18, while the second team came out on the long end of a 13-8 score. Next week Quitman entertains Clearmont on Wednesday.

The Parnell boys' and girls' teams also won a double header at Ravenwood yesterday. The score of the boys' game was 15 to 2, while that of the girls was 11 to 7.

Two Wives; Same Roof —Cog Slipped; Arrested

New York Man Alternated With Entertainment and Fooled Them Both For a While.

New York, Oct. 10.—Two wives cooked and baked for Samuel Grossman under the same roof.

On alternate nights the fragrance of piping hot dished in the kitchen of one found its way to the other where dinner had been waiting for many minutes, while neither of the women knew her husband, to whom she was legally married, was with the other.

Such is apartment life in New York

In Tombs court both wives told Magistrate Simpson how they had learned of the deception but recently. One night Samuel would take wife No. 1 to the movies, the next night wife No. 2 tripped gaily down the stairs on his arm, bound for the same show.

The women never met. The name of a third woman also figures in the case. She was known as a "countess" at Grossman's summer home at Keansburg, N. J., one of the wives said and furnished bail for the alleged bigamist when he was arrested.

It was said that Grossman was called her "cave man" and that his disabille caperings attracted attention in the New Jersey town.

The man's first marriage was to Mrs. Jeannette Grossman in 1911 while he took Mrs. Lillian Grossman as his wife in 1915.

Grossman is held for grand jury.

Traffic Halted While Large Family Passes

Horsham, Eng., Oct. 10.—William Duncton, 84, his wife and ten children, 52 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren halted traffic when they formed in procession for the movies in celebration of the patriarch's birthday.
